The Great Fraud: Historical Timeline of Corruption and Crimes

Introduction

The people finally have the power. The historical timeline of the great fraud and how to deal with it. Excellent compilation.

Cognitive Dissonance

Sometimes people hold a core belief that is very strong. When they are presented with evidence that works against that belief, the new evidence cannot be accepted. It creates a feeling that is extremely uncomfortable called cognitive dissonance. And because it is so important to protect the core belief, they will rationalize, ignore, and even deny anything that doesn't fit in with that core belief.

Woodrow Wilson Quotes:

"Since I entered politics, I have chiefly had men's views confided to me privately. Some of the biggest men in the US in the field of commerce and manufacturing are afraid of somebody. They know that there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it."

"I am a most unhappy man. I have unwittingly ruined my country. A great industrial nation is now controlled by its system of credit. We are no longer a government by free opinion, no longer a government by conviction and the vote of the majority, but a government by the opinion and duress of a small group of dominant men." (1921, in his final speech as president)

Edward Mandel House Quote (Woodrow Wilson's advisor):

"Very soon every American will be required to register their biological property in a national system designed to keep track of the people... By such methodology, we can compel people to submit to our agenda, which will affect our security as a chargeback for our fiat paper currency... Americans, by unknowingly or unwittingly delivering the bills of leading to us, will be rendered bankrupt and insolvent forever to remain economic slaves through taxation secured by their pledges."
